Hello, my friends!

I was thinking this week about movies. I like team stories. The hero puts together his/her team and they battle the bad guys together—the sum always being greater than the separate parts.

The Father gave me a dream last week. I was on a playing field and two huge groups of people were having a tug-of-war. There were at least two hundred people on each side: equally matched. The competitors strained against the rope. Each side sweating profusely, but the rope never moved.

My eye was then drawn to another part of the field. Four people were on one team, but there was no opposing team. The four people were running across the field at top speed, absolutely nothing impeding their progress.

The Father then told me, "It's not how many people you have on the team as long as everyone is pulling in the same direction."

I've thought a lot about that dream this week. I think about the staff that joined me this Summer. Such as Ian North, who've I worked with over the last three years. He came back to Atlanta to work on a DVD for our ministry. You'll get to see the fruits of his labor when you watch the program. Ian worked hard on the project and his enthusiasm for our ministry is evident.

And Arturo Castaneda. He's one of my newest directors working in the Roswell Road area of Atlanta. He grew up in Mexico and recently graduated from Crown College in Minnesota. He is uniquely gifted to reach immigrant population. He has a great desire to win people to the Lord.

And Anna Lisa Price—the sixth daughter in a family of twenty-two kids! Her parents adopted children with difficulties. She has been in ministry since childhood. Anna Lisa is doing a great job at the mission at the Corners—leading many people to Jesus

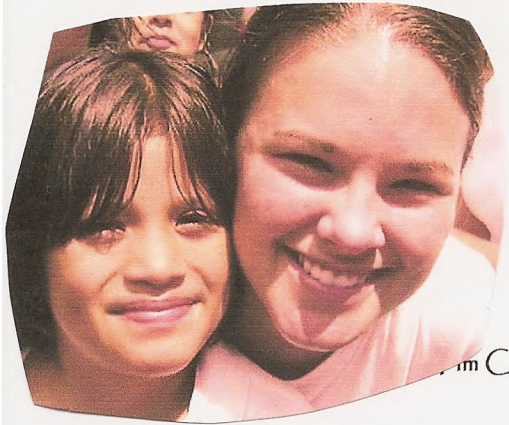

And Scott Brown—who took time off this summer to help us in the ministry. Whether it's checking on teams, moving tables and chairs or sticking labels on envelopes, Scott has pitched in and made the load much lighter.

And Jessica Cruz—Part of my Summer Staff. She is the co-director of one of my missions and helps me coordinate the teams on site. Jessica is studying nursing and wants to reach people for Jesus in the medical profession.

These folks are just small part of the Whirlwind Missions team. God is continuing to bring us talented servants who want to "Take the Church, To the People!" I hope as you watch the DVD you get a taste of the ministry that you have helped make possible! THANKS!

Please support our ministry!
