Hello, my friends!

I've been on the road a lot this month! One thing I've learned is no matter where you go, people need prayer.

When I teach at conferences, I emphasize prayer. For me prayer is not a strategy, prayer is THE strategy. While in Colorado with the missionaries working there, we spent a lot of time just talking to Jesus about our problems. God is still in the miracle working business!

One brother shared with me about his son. He was born with a defect that gave him horrible headaches. They were able to find one doctor who was able to do the special kind of spinal surgery that he needed.

As he told the story of his son's operation and the horrible pain he endured, we both wept. His son couldn't even hold up his own head. My friend helped cradle his head and tried to be brave for his son, but inside he was a wreck. Now, due to the prayers of many people, his son is back in sports and doing great! We had a poignant prayer time thanking God for his awesome healing powers.

Another friend told me about the frustration of the job where he was working. He felt like God was calling him to make a change, but he had people depending on him. It's tough to move when it impacts more than just you. I told him that normally when I feel the Lord urging me to do something, He gives me the direction to go. We prayed together for clarity in direction.

One of the kids I work with has a mother who is kind of hard on her. She was griping about her mom and how she just hates being home. I told her that if she actually did her school work her mom would get off her case. She wasn't convinced. We prayed for peace in that relationship.

Seems that no matter where I go people are concerned about money/jobs, family relationships and health issues. Thousands of miles separated these conversations, yet people are the same. Perhaps you're having a problem in one of these areas. I'd be glad to pray with you! Call me at 770-490-1668, or send me an email to whirlwindtim@gmail.com.
