

Whirlwind Missions

Letters from the MISSION Field

December 2012

ashleyannkendall.com

Dear Friends,

Yesterday after church, we were waiting in line for lunch with the other members. Back in the corner, near the windows and sunshine, were two mothers playing and fussing over their babies. Mo and I were immediately drawn to the family and began cooing and laughing with the Filipino women.

After a smorgasbord lunch of Vietnamese noodles, KFC Fried chicken and Thanksgiving leftovers, Dad, Miles and I lead the Sharon Baptist Church team over to the missions. Dad took Cumberland Courts, while Miles and I covered Azalea.

Our team of ten broke up to round up people. Miles and I took the side near the soccer field. As we got closer we could hear a group of boys laughing. We walked up to find Jeffery and four friends chasing after their pet rabbit.

The rabbit squeezed through the wooden porch rails and jumped for the grass. He ran through the yard towards a prickly brush where he remained cornered up against the brick wall, surrounded by the boys.

“He’s smart!” Freddy exclaimed, as the rabbit slipped through his hands.

Miles joined in coaching the boys on how to flush the pet out. Finally, Miles got ahold of the bunny and all was set right.

Meanwhile, I’ve been invited inside the boy’s home by their mother. She’s got her baby on one hip and pairs of shoes in the other. In Spanish she tells me, “For you, try them.” I sit down and pull the tall gray, leather boots. I shake my head enthusiastically. “Their very nice. Thank you so much!”

“Si! Feliz Navidad!” She tells me as she pulls me in for a hug.

Merry Christmas to YOU. Thank you for giving me the gift of serving. Everyday I find missions around me because you make it possible for me to serve full time. Enjoy the calendar and thank you for all the prayers!

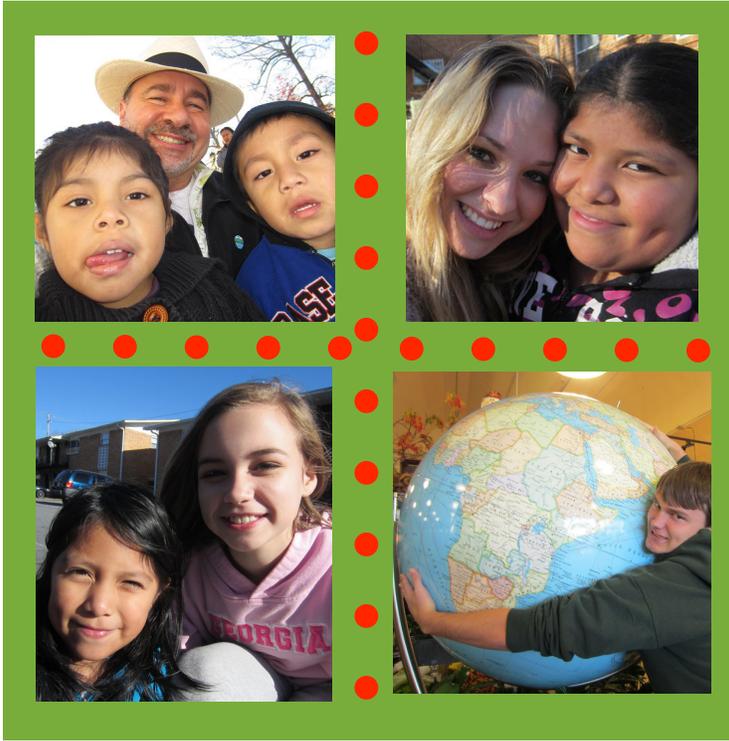

Ashley and Miles

Farina reading the Bible about Queen Ester.

Thank you Sharon Baptist church for serving in the International Village!

Please support our ministry! Make checks out to North American Mission Board, Designate to Ashley Kendall Acct# 9064

