Hello, my friends!

It's always good to see my older kids! I noticed Shimanto coming and greeted him warmly, "Howdy, Shimanto! What's shakin' bacon?"

"Hello, Mr. Tim!" He strode over to me and gave me a hug. Shimanto is an intelligent, Bengali young man in high school.

"Looking good, Shimanto! How's your brother?"

"You heard about his wreck?"

"I heard about the last one, did he have another?"

"Yeah, he got banged up. His car is totaled."

"Is he ok?"

"He's still going to the doctor for back therapy."

"Tell him I want to see him when he's around." Shadin works two jobs and is hardly ever around the mission.

The next day Shadin came by to see me.

"Hello, Mr. Tim!"

I jumped up and gave him a big hug. "Dude, I heard you were in a bad wreck."

"Yeah. I pulled into traffic and a lady smashed into me. She was going too fast and not watching what she was doing. She hit me so hard it flipped my car!" He shook his head in dismay.

"Yow! That's awful man. Is your back better?"

"Still hurts." He rubbed his back with his hand.

"I want to pray for you, bro." I started to pray as he bowed his head.

"LORD, we ask a powerful blessing on my brother Shadin. I ask that you will give him a healing blessing. Let any medication that he may be taking be effective. We bind the evil one with any spirit of fear or apprehension. THANK YOU, for protecting him. Be with his family and bless them, too. AMEN."

We opened our eyes and I shook his hand firmly.

"Thanks, Mr. Tim. I really appreciate that. I know I can always count on you."

"You're a great young man, Shadin. I'm proud of you and how hard you're working. Just be super careful when you're driving, bro."

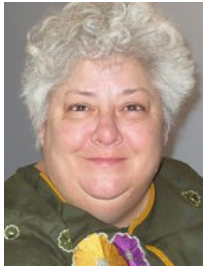

"I will, Mr. Tim. Thanks again. I'll come by and see you when I'm around."

"Sure hope so, Shadin. Miss you, bro!"

He turned around to leave as I heard a chorus of "MR. TIM, MR. TIM!!" Back to homework duties.

My friends, evangelism is about caring for people when they're hurting. The next time YOU hear something that sounds like a prayer request . . . Pray with them!! You'll be glad you did, and so will they! LOVE YOU!!

Pray for our kids! Love you! Tim & Kathy
